Tradition Six

"An A.A. group ought never endorse, finance, or lend the A.A. name to any related facility or outside enterprise, lest problems of money, property, and prestige divert us from our primary purpose."

Due to the number of recoveries, growing A.A. membership and friendly press, the 1940's exemplified a period of A.A. idealism. The 12 x12 states "The moment we saw that we had an answer for alcoholism, it was reasonable (or so it seemed at the time) for us to feel that we might have the answer to a whole lot of other things." "In fact, we felt duty-bound to throw the whole weight of the A.A. name behind any meritorious cause."

Some AA's thought we could spearhead a new spiritual renaissance solving much of the world problems, not just alcoholism. Many endeavors were tried and supported by A.A in numerous ways of affiliation during the "Flying Blind" period of our first decade. After a multitude of problems emerged that are too numerous to name here, it became evident that losing sight of our primary purpose was possible if not probable. By venturing outside of the one alcoholic talking to another, and a group primary purpose model, our all-important unity was threatened by a foray into a complexity of associations, regardless of how noble the cause or intent.

Bill W noted in the 12 x 12 that "most alcoholics are bankrupt idealist" and many AA's dreamed of grandeur and thought "We might change the world." It is worth mentioning that Bill W believed himself to be of that mind set at times during our first decade. It was through the experience of trial and error that Bill W and other early members embraced the need of returning to simplicity as a guide for our society's endeavors." In the 1948 Grapevine he wrote "Just a place to meet and talk, that's about all AA needs."

As AA grew further, it became evident that by adopting The Twelve Concepts of World Service and a General Service Conference, AA would better be able to deal with growth, be able to effectively function and stay true its traditions.

Finally, this tradition gives room for the individual but not groups to be free to finance, affiliate or endorse anywhere outside of AA we choose, but not as representatives of AA.

Bud C

1. To whom can we lend the AA name?
2. Does this Tradition promote effective unity?
3. Is it good for a group to lease a small building?
4. Should AA members serve on a non-AA advisory committee on alcoholism?

Tradition Six Checklist

An AA group ought never endorse, finance, or lend the AA name to any related facility or outside enterprise, lest problems of money, property and prestige divert us from our primary purpose.

- Should my fellow group members and I go out and raise money to endow several AA beds in our local hospital?
- Is it good for a group to lease a small building?
- Are all the officers and members of our local club for AAs familiar with "Guidelines on Clubs," which is available free from GSO?
- Should the secretary of our group serve on the mayor's advisory committee on alcoholism?
- Some alcoholics will stay around AA only if we have a TV and card room. If this is what is required to carry the message to them, should we have these facilities?

Concept Six

On behalf of A.A. as a whole, our General Service Conference has the principal responsibility for the maintenance of our world services, and it traditionally has the final decision respecting large matters of general policy and finance. But the Conference also recognizes that the chief initiative and the active responsibility in most of these matters should be exercised primarily by the Trustee members of the Conference when they act among themselves as the General Service Board of Alcoholics Anonymous.

We have seen that the “final responsibility and ultimate authority” for A.A.’s service activities rest with the A.A. groups (Concept I), but to carry out this responsibility they must delegate to the Conference (Concept II). The Conference, in turn, must delegate administrative authority to the General Service Board of Trustees. Again, it is helpful if you are familiar with both the Conference Charter and the Bylaws of the General Service Board to understand this relationship and the freedom of action that the trustees must have.

The trustees have the legal and practical responsibility for the operation of A.A. World Services, Inc. (which embraces A.A. publishing as well as the General Service Office) and of AA Grapevine, Inc. These entities have a combined cash flow of many millions of dollars annually. The trustees are also responsible for A.A.’s public information activities. They are the guardians of the Twelve Traditions. They are responsible for carrying the A.A. message to other countries around the world. They are A.A.’s “bankers,” overseeing the financial operations and investing A.A.’s substantial Reserve Fund. (Read the text of Concept XI for a more detailed account of their functions.)

Questions

Are we familiar with how our General Service Board

(GSB) alcoholic and non-alcoholic trustees serve AA? Are we familiar with how our other trusted servants serve AA?

Are we clear about the terms "chief initiative" and "active responsibility"? Can we see a direct link to our home group?

HYBRID!!! PI/CPC meets on the 4th Tuesday of the month at 7:00pm; Meeting ID: 976 6139 5578 Passcode: 397657 & In person at SRI Central Office 3215 E. Thunderbird Rd, Phoenix 85032

Concept Six Checklist

The Conference recognizes that the chief initiative and active responsibility in most world service matters should be exercised by the trustee members of the Conference acting as the General Service Board.

- Are we familiar with how our General Service Board (G.S.B.) Class A and Class B trustees serve A.A.? Are we familiar with how our other trusted servants serve A.A.?
- Are we clear about the terms, “chief initiative” and “active responsibility”? Can we see a direct link to our home group?

I remember the first time I heard it's the step that separates the men from the boys. I had heard that before the part about stuff that separates the men from the boys. I heard it just before my first beer, first smoke, first whiskey and first everything. I didn't want to be a boy I wanted to be a grown man! A Man smoked, drank, did want they want and didn't cry!

It was something I grew up by. An idea a concept that I built and grew. But how odd to hear it again and not understand what it meant this time. I just started going to meetings was the beginning of my journey not really knowing what was to happen, how long I'd be here and when I'd stop going to meetings and all. I was told over and over to get a Big Book to read it get a sponsor and do the steps. Not sure why but they kept telling me that.

Well, turns out I was just desperate enough to listen. Did what they said, I was miserable all the time, something, anything had to be better then what I have now. So, I read that book, funny though when reading about step 6 it really didn't seem all that big, not like some of the others more sort of quick and painless. BAM take away all of my character defects. Cool I can live with that! New Slate All is Great!

It also mentions is the 12x12 nope not the case I will not be pure as snow man what a letdown when I finally read that. So now what?

Turns out in that Book I was told to read, a number of times it said that this is not an overnight thing it must go no for a lifetime then I'm thinking oh damn! Thank God for the people in the fellowship and my sponsor who helped me to realize it's only One Day at a Time. So, I did the steps one at a time trusting God cleaning house and then snitching on myself now wanting God to take my character defects. Trying to let go of everything even the ones I wanted to keep. Working as best I can towards perfection. This is all, up to this point making ready to clean up the past and do what I have to do. To not use the old tools that made me a tool.

Now to go back to separating men from the boys to trust in God , to fix my past and help others to be the best example of my service manual (Big Book) as I can and to use the design for living that really works for me and others… and to do this for the rest of life is helping me to mature towards the man I'm supposed to be, not the boy who started drinking.

TRADITION SIX:

"The A.A. group ought never endorse, finance or lend the A.A. name to any related facility or outside enterprise, lest problems of money, property and prestige divert us from our primary purpose."

Have you ever noticed that the words, "Alcoholics Anonymous" or "A.A." are not in the names of any of our clubs? We have the Scottsdale Fellowship Club, the Alano Club, etc. Salt River Intergroup does not have "A.A." or "Alcoholics Anonymous" in its name. Have you ever wondered why?

The book, Alcoholics Anonymous Comes of Age, a brief history of A.A., discusses a group of alcoholics, "The Washingtonians," a forerunner of Alcoholics Anonymous. It was a temperance movement and ran from 1840 until around 1845. Their membership reached as high as 600,000. After that short time, however, they all but disappeared because they forgot the primary purpose, to help the alcoholic who still suffers, and became embroiled in all kinds of controversial outside social enterprises, including prohibition, sectarian religion, politics and even the abolition of slavery.

The following discussion regarding the words "A.A." and "Alcoholics Anonymous" is found on pages 107 through 109 of Alcoholics Anonymous Comes of Age, and on page 155 of the Twelve and Twelve.

At the beginning, the Foundation (now General Services Board) was originally chartered to do everything but lobby for prohibition. "We chartered for education; we were chartered for research; we could do almost anything." "Having learned to live so happily, we would show everybody else how."

"Well, we tried A.A. hospitals. And they all bogged down because you cannot put an A.A. group into business; too many busybody cooks always spoil the broth."

The public became confused. Was A.A. spiritual or was it medical? Was it a reform movement? "In consternation, we saw ourselves getting married to all kinds of enterprises, some good and some not so good." "The moment we lent the A.A. name to any outside enterprise, we got into trouble, sometimes very serious trouble."

The Twelve and Twelve talks about distilling companies proposing to go into the field of alcohol education. They spotted their man, an A.A. member with necessary experience. But this man and Alcoholics Anonymous discovered it was a compromising situation. "Some would say we'd signed up with the dries, the other half would think we'd joined the wets."

Once again, there would be confusion for the general public.

(Tradition Six also shows us that Alcoholics Anonymous is about cooperation, but not affiliation.)

There was, too, the realization that Tradition Six has another meaning. At the end of the discussion on Tradition Six in Alcoholics Anonymous Comes of Age, it states: "We saw something else: We saw that the more A.A. minded its own business, the greater its general influence would become." And the last paragraph reads: "Today we understand and accept this paradox: The more A.A. sticks to its primary purpose, the greater will be its helpful influence everywhere."

The Washingtonians is a cautionary tale. Tradition Six keeps us focused on our primary purpose, to help the alcoholic who still suffers.

The emphasis of Tradition Six is such that even the name of a club or an Intergroup does not have "A.A." or "Alcoholics Anonymous" in its name. The last sentence of Tradition Six, long form, reads, "An A.A. group can bind itself to no one."

And these are some of the reasons why.
